

Is It Just Another Song?

Sunday after Sunday pass with us singing many songs. Some we sing over and over again. There is nothing wrong with that unless our minds shut off. Consider the following with me:

1. Who am I thinking of when I sing?
2. Is God big in my life?
3. Am I showing others the greatness of God?

In a world that has thousands of attention grabbers, we do well to remember Hebrews 12:1,2. "Let us run with endurance the race that is set before us, fixing our eyes on Jesus, the author and perfecter of faith."

We aren't just singing another song! What we do has great significance because of who God is.

Right when we get bored with a song or another service, it is time to stop and realize that it's not about things. It's about him! God! We sing because of this incredible God who has no equal.

Recently, I was in a personal quiet time with God, when an overwhelming feeling came over me. God is so much more than what I know of him! What I do know is wonderful, but not only do I have this day, I have eternity to learn to know him better. He is the one who created a billion times a billion worlds, who holds all things together and knows the thoughts of each and every 6 billion plus humans. With tenderness and love he invites us even now into a deeper relationship with him. Imagine! God invites us! Shouldn't it be the other way around? Absolutely not, because God is perfect love! He is not like anyone we know.

Earlier I asked us three questions. The answers to these questions will reveal whether or not it will be just another song. As we gather here today, let's discipline ourselves to focus on God and worship him with joy.
